THE GALLOWAYS,
BARONS DUNKELD

(Revised to 1964)

THE GALLOWAYS OF LIPNOCH, co. PERTH

HE SURNAME OF GALLOWAY was for several hundreds of years borne by both tacksmen and clerics of the Abbey of Cupar-Angus, co. Perth¹. This family is not to be confused with other contemporary families of the same surname in the shires of Dumbarton and Ayr. Abbey records indicate that the Cupar-Angus Galloways descend from,

THOMAS DE GALLOWAY, EARL OF ATHOLL, jure uxoris; son of Roland, Lord of Galloway, by his wife Elena, dau. of Richard de Morville, scion of an illustrious Anglo-Norman family seated at Burgh-by-Sands, co. Cumberland. The Earl was a great benefactor of the Abbey of Cupar-Angus and was bur. there before 9 August, 1231. His elder bro. Alan de Galloway, Constable of Scotland, attended at Runnymede 15 June, 1215, being a vassal-in-chief of KING JOHN in England, as well as Lord of Galloway in Scotland. His name appears in the preamble to MAGNA CARTA and his seal of arms, azure, a lion rampant argent, crowned or, is affixed to that momentous instrument as one of the King's Securities. The Earl was succ. by his son,

PATRICK DE GALLOWAY, 5th EARL OF ATHOLL. In 1242, in the presence of KING ALEXANDER II, he unhorsed his kinsman Sir Walter Bisset of Aboyne in tournament at the tilting field of Haddington. The following night he was burned to death in his lodgings as a reprisal by the Bissets and d.s.p.

Earl Thomas also left two illeg. sons,

1. ALAN, of whom presently.
2. Michael de Galloway, who in 1242 witnessed a charter of his kinsman, Conan, illeg. son of Henry, 3rd Earl of Atholl, to the monks of Lindores, co. Fife.

ALAN DE GALLOWAY, b. circa 1210, was a notorious freebooter. In Patent Roll 30 January, 1251/52 he is styled "son of Thomas, Earl of Atholl" when pardoned for having in 1243 attacked the house of John Bisset in Ireland and there slain some of his men. He appears to have obtained sanctuary at the Abbey of Cupar-Angus and an Abbey document of 1275 mentions his burial there, wrongly styling him "Alan, Earl of Atholl", since the earldom was legally held by John de Strabolgi, 9th Earl of Atholl, a descendant of the 5th Earl's aunt, Forflissa. She had succ. as Countess of Atholl when Earl Patrick was murdered. (see Burke's Peerage, STRABOLGI, B.)

THE GALLOWAYS in Cupar-Angus had no documentary proof of descent from Alan de Galloway, as many of the Abbey records were destroyed during the celebrated Lindsay Raid of 1479², but among Abbey

*This symbol indicates living members of the family.

¹The Galloways persisted on the abbey lands long after the Reformation. In 1771 a James Galloway was served heir to his father as portioner of Carsograng of Cupar Abbey, a farm which had descended from father to son for ten or more generations since 1550. A descendant of this family was Major-General Sir Archibald Galloway, K.C.B., Indian Army, who became Chairman of the East India Company in 1849. (see Dictionary of National Biography).

²At this time Gilbert Galloway was tacksmen of four acres of the burgh of Keithik on the southwest side of Causewayend of Cupar-Angus Abbey; the lease or "tack" dating from 1 May, 1475.

papers which survived the raid were transactions between Thomas de Galloway, Earl of Atholl and an Alexander de Seton; these may explain why some of the earlier Galloways migrated from Cupar-Angus and settled on the Seton estates; one of this line being,

JOHN DE GALLOWAY, described as "tenant in the town and lands of Longniddry", co. East Lothian, in a charter dated 20 June, 1449 and granted by George Seton, Lord of Seton and Longniddry, Knight, in favour of Catherine St. Clair, widow of Sir John Seton. He, or his immediate descendant, followed in the train of Sir Alexander Seton when the latter removed from East Lothian on receiving confirmation of his maternally inherited lands of Touch, co. Stirling and Tullibody, co. Clackmannan, 19 April, 1470.

The next of this family on record are two brothers, both living in Huddisfield of Touchadam, near Cambus of Tullibody, in 1530,

1. ROBERT GALLOWAY, sometime servant to KING JAMES IV, ancestor of the Galloways of Lipnoch, of whom later. see p. 5

2. ANDREW GALLOWAY, who sold timber in Dundee; recorded as doing business there 14 October, 1536. He had issue, possibly among others,

1. Andrew, a skipper in Dundee; mar. Margaret Guidlet. He was living September, 1572 and supporting his sister-in-law Christian Nicoll, relict of his brother Thomas. He had issue,

(1) James, a skipper in Dundee; d. April, 1581, apparently unmar.

(2) Alexander, a burgess of Dundee; rented a house in the Kirk Wynd, 1570; d. September, 1583, leaving issue three daus.

2. John, d. before 2 November, 1571

3. THOMAS, of whom below.

The third son,

THOMAS GALLOWAY, baxter, a burgess of Dundee; mar. Christian Nicoll who survived him, and d. before October, 1571, leaving issue, possibly among others,

MR. PATRICK GALLOWAY, b. circa 1551. He was Minister of Easter Fowlis in 1576 and was translated to Perth 25 April, 1581. He was suspected of attachment to the Gowrie interest and outlawed by KING JAMES VI on 6 June, 1584. In 1590 he was reinstated and became "Minister to the King's House". In 1600 he was a prominent supporter of His Majesty against the Gowrie family, but was removed from Court at the Queen's instance in June 1601. In 1604 he attended the Hampton Court Conference. He sat in Parliament in 1590, in which year, and again in 1602, he was elected Moderator of the General Assembly. He edited some religious writings from the royal pen, including A Fruitfull Meditation which KING JAMES produced on Revelation xx in 1588; and was himself author of a work entitled Catechisme as well as others, mostly published sermons. In 1607 he was one of the Ministers of Edinburgh. He d. 1626, having mar. firstly, in May 1583, Matillo, dau. of Alexander Guthrie, Common Clerk of Edinburgh, by whom he had issue,

1. William, who d.s.p. before 1626.

2. JAMES, 1st BARON DUNKELD, of whom presently.

1. Dorothy, who mar. (December, 1604) William Adamson of Craigcrook.

2. Christian.

Mr. Galloway mar. secondly (June, 1598) Katherine Lawson, widow of Gilbert Dick, merchant-burgess of Edinburgh, without issue.
The second son,

SIR JAMES GALLOWAY, 1st BARON DUNKELD, a prominent Cavalier, b. 1585. He was appointed Master of Requests 3 March, 1627 and knighted³ before 22 February, 1631 having been admitted Privy Councillor 5 August, 1630 on a royal warrant dated 5 May, 1628. He was a Commissioner of Exchequer and served on a commission for prosecuting persons accused of harbouring Jesuits. On 26 March, 1640 he was appointed Secretary to the King in Scotland. He held numerous other offices and received grants of the monopoly for casting iron ordnance in Scotland for twenty-one years and for producing salt by a new process of evaporation. A most faithful servant to KING CHARLES I in the time of his greatest exigency he was created a peer as LORD AND BARON OF DUNKELD, 15 May, 1645. He d. at Westminster and was bur. at St. Margaret's Church 2 December, 1660. He mar. a dau. of Sir Robert Norter, Knt., and by her had issue an only child,

THOMAS GALLOWAY, 2nd BARON DUNKELD, who had his lands⁴ of Carnbee, co. Fife, erected into a feudal barony 13 January, 1671. His lordship mar. (29 July, 1662) Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Thomson of Duddingston, Baronet. Lady Dunkeld was born 1643, outlived her husband by forty-two years and d. in 1726, having gained notoriety as a spendthrift. She had issue by his lordship five sons and eight daus.,

1. JAMES, 3rd BARON DUNKELD, of whom presently.

2. William, bapt. 28 November, 1669; d. before 7 March, 1701.

3. Thomas, d. before 7 March, 1701.

4. John, b. 1680 and mar. Elizabeth, second dau. of Sir George Hay of Pitcullen and relict of James Rattray of Craighall Rattray, co. Perth (see Burke's L.G., RATTRAY OF CRAIGHALL RATTRAY). On 16 February, 1705 he had a charter of the barony of Baldovie, co. Angus. He d.s.p. 28 August, 1731 and was bur. at Greyfriars.

5. Andrew, who d.s.p.

1. Margaret, bapt. 4 June, 1663; bur. 9 March, 1669.

2. Catherine, bapt. 26 June, 1665; mar. as his second wife to Thomas Forbes of Waterton, co. Aberdeen (banns given March 1698). She was still living 31 December, 1725.

³The new Knight, styled "Master of Requests to our dread Sovereign Charles King of Scotland", petitioned "that Lyon may give and assign unto his ancient coat-armour" (a lion rampant) "a crest, with scroll and motto, which he may bear without wrong-doing to others". The King of Arms assigned a suitable crest, scroll and motto "as here in the margin adjected is to be seen; All which arms, crest, escroll and motto, I the said Lyon King of Arms do by these presents ratify, confirm, give, grant and assign unto the said Sir James Galloway, Knight, and to his posterity forever," etc. It is to be noted that Galloway's petition asserted that he was already an armiger, and only sought the addition of a crest, scroll and motto. Lyon ratified these arms, which sequence suggests acceptance of Galloway's claim to armorial and therefore actual descent from the Lords of Galloway, further strengthening the Cupar-Angus tradition. The armorial bearings of Sir James Galloway are recorded in Lyon Register as: Argent, a lion rampant azure, armed and langued gules. Crest: a mound bespread with the rays of the sun proper, embraced betwixt two corn ears saltireways and ensigned with a cross-crosslet or. Supporters: two eagles volant proper. Motto: "HIGHER". (See The Law and Practices of Heraldry in Scotland, p. 217).

⁴The House of Carnbee remained standing until 1836 when it was demolished. The estate now belongs to Sir Ralph Anstruther of Balcaskie, 7th Baronet.

3. Jean, bapt. 4 April, 1667; alive and unmar. 31 December, 1725.

4. Anne, bapt. 29 December, 1668; she seems to have been bur. 22 December, 1669.

5. Elizabeth, bapt. 6 February, 1671. She was mar. to Mr. John Falconer, Minister of Carnbee, later consecrated Bishop of Dundee and placed in charge of the district of Brechin; became D.D. and had issue. She d. in March, 1691.

6. Mary, bapt. 7 May, 1673; seems to have d. young.

7. Margaret, b. 1678. Mar. (31 July, 1701), Thomas Rattray of Craighall Rattray, co. Perth (who afterwards took Orders and became Bishop of Dunkeld and Primus) and had issue (see Burke's L.G. RATTRAY OF CRAIGHALL RATTRAY).

8. Grisell, b. after 15 April, 1679. She mar. Patrick Crichton of Crunan, who on 14 July, 1732 was served heir of line and provision-general to Thomas Crichton of Ruthvens, his bro. He was a surgeon in Dundee.

His lordship d. before 3 August, 1684 and was succ. by his eldest son,

JAMES GALLOWAY, 3rd BARON DUNKELD, bapt. 2 July, 1664. He saw his first military service in Hungary and took his seat in Parliament 29 April, 1686. At the Revolution he adhered to the cause of KING JAMES VII and II and served under Viscount Dundee at Killiecrankie 17 June, 1689; for which he was forfeited, attainted and condemned to death as a traitor 14 July, 1690. He fled to France and obtained the post of lieutenant-colonel in Dillon's Regiment (Infanterie Irlandaise), with the rank of Colonel reformé. He was killed on 16 August, 1705 at the battle of Cassano in Apulia during the war of the Spanish Succession, serving under the Duc de Vendôme. He mar. Eleanor Sale, who was alive 28 April, 1728 and had issue,

1. JAMES, titular 4th BARON DUNKELD, of whom presently.

1. Mary, who became a nun in the Convent of Val de Grace, Paris and d. there in 1785.

The only son,

JAMES GALLOWAY, who but for the attainder would have succ. his father as 4th Baron Dunkeld in the Peerage of Scotland, was b. at St. Germain-en-Laye, France, 12 November, 1704. He entered the Gardes du Corps du Roi on 1 January, 1722 and the Garde de la Manche in 1724. He was known as le Comte de Dunkeld and his seal bore a 'couronne de comte'; however, his commissions were addressed to Le Sieur Dunkeld, or de Dunkeld. He was appointed Captain reformé in Clare's Regiment (Infanterie Irlandaise) 14 June, 1731 and to the command of a company with the rank of Colonel 2 April, 1736. He obtained the cross of Chevalier de St. Louis 11 April, 1743 and the rank of brigadier of infantry 1 May, 1745. On 27 July, 1747 he was granted a pension of 3000 livres for distinguished conduct at the head of the Irish Brigade at the battle of Laeffelt on the 2nd of the same month. He was assigned the immediate leadership of that corps by Marshal Saxe in compliment to Scotland which had recently acted so gallantly on behalf of the Stuarts. According to O'Callaghan's account of the battle, "the Old Brigade took satisfaction under a Scotch nobleman, James Galloway, Lord Dunkeld, for the overthrow and cruel treatment at Culloden of its brother Jacobites, the highlanders of Scotland". He was appointed Maréchal de Camp 10 May, 1748. He is said to have had a brevet as lieutenant-general, but to have applied for and obtained leave to retire owing to some disappointment. Assigned apartments in the Chateau de Vincennes, near Paris, he d. there 18 February, 1780 and was bur. in the church at Vincennes. He mar. firstly, Marie Angelique Le Rat and secondly the widow of a M. D'Ancelin, both without issue, and this branch of the family became extinct.

The elder brother in Huddisfield of Touchadam, see p. 2

ROBERT GALLOWAY, apparently accompanied Sir Alexander Seton, 2nd of Touch and Tullibody, heritable Armour Bearer to KING JAMES IV, to the fatal field of Flodden 9 September, 1513 for employment about the person of THE KING. Eleven years later, having escaped the slaughter of Flodden, he received four pounds in payment for having safeguarded certain belongings of his slain royal master; Exchequer Rolls XV for the year 1524 recording: "Et Roberto Galloway, servitori domini regis defuncti pro conservatione certarum rerum domini regis ex consideratione auditorum £iiii." His presumed son, or grandson,

PATRICK GALLOWAY, a tenant in Tullibody, is mentioned in a Seton of Tullibody charter dated at Tullibody 24 August, 1569; he is believed to be father of,

ROBERT GALLOWAY, a tenant in Tullibody, for whom John Seton 6th of Touch (great-great-grandson of Sir Alexander Seton supra), was cautioner in 1594 and for whom James Seton in Tullibody was cautioner in 1601. On 31 October, 1599 he was a witness against Alexander Short, servant to the 2nd Earl of Mar, in an adultery case between David Ray and his wife Janet Cocklay, all in Tullibody; which case was heard at Dunblane, co. Perth. He left issue,

1. WILLIAM, of whom presently. see below

2. Robert, indweller of Tullibody, recorded in Privy Council Register as having attacked without provocation John Moreis and Agnes Short his spouse on the highway at the back of Tullibody on 16 April, 1630. He removed to Nether Gogar, parish of Logie and held lands from Sir William Alexander of Menstrie. Test. registered 29 January, 1631. He mar. Catherine Cairns, having issue,

(1) John, mentioned in Privy Council Register as the son of Robert above; implicated in the same affray and ordered to pay a satisfaction to Moreis and spouse 'for hurting and wounding them'. Still living in Tullibody 26 March, 1663 when test. registered. He mar. Janet Henderson.

(2) Thomas.

(1) a dau. mar. Richard Kidston.

3. Thomas, in Powhouse.

4. John, in Burlie.

The eldest son,

WILLIAM GALLOWAY OF LIPNOCH, described in a Great Seal Charter of 1 March, 1634 as 'senior in Jellvaine' in Tullibody, by which charter he was granted⁵ the Crown lands of Lipnoch, parish of Logie, co.

⁵In 1630 the Earl of Stirling (Sir William Alexander of Menstrie), Secretary of State for Scotland, purchased the barony of Tullibody from the Setons and William Galloway thus became one of his tenants. At the same time Sir James Galloway was Master of Requests in Scotland to KING CHARLES I, an office in which he had succ. Lord Stirling. The grant of Crown lands to William Galloway may have resulted from this happy combination of circumstances.

Perth. He mar. Margaret Chrystiersoun, perhaps of the family of Sheriff-muirlands, near Dunblane, and had issue,

1. JOHN, 2nd of Lipnoch, of whom presently. see p.7

2. William, ment. in Presbytery Records of Dunblane in 1656 when accused of 'manifest falsehood' by the Minister of Logie, when he informed the Presbytery that the latter had 'purchased a calf on the Lord's Day'. Also ment. in a Decreet dated 20 May, 1668 and was a juror on 11 February, 1675. He appears to have mar. Isobel Dawson, but left no recorded issue.

3. Robert, accused of 'unchrystiane deportment' by the Minister of Logie at a Dunblane libel case 10 June, 1656. Fifteen years later, 29 November, 1671, he was disciplined for 'slandering the Minister' and was 'ordered to sit in sacco on the pillar or before the pulpit as the Minister shall see most expedient, there to confess and crave God pardon for his sin.' Earlier, on 12 August, 1646, he took proceedings against his bro. John for production of the deeds relating to the Lipnoch estate, for under the Great Seal Charter of 1634 he and his bro. John were to succ. equally; d. before 28 November, 1678, leaving issue a son,

JOHN, of whom later.

The eldest son,

JOHN GALLOWAY, 2nd of Lipnoch, b. circa 1609, succ. to the entire lands of Lipnoch in August 1646. At the visitation by the Presbytery of Dunblane in 1656 he was chief informer with William Stirling of Herbertshire against the Minister of Logie as to the Minister's 'drunkiness', neglect of parochial duties and of allowing the parish to 'ly under ane dead ministrie'. On behalf of his two brothers, Galloway of Lipnoch made the following charges against the Minister, viz: 'That he did latelie tak ane honest man William Galloway by the throat and threatened with oaths to cast him in the burn', that he 'charget ane man Robert Galloway his wyfe and his sister from the pulpit by the name of God to ryse out from the said seat, whereas the said Robert Galloway had a right thereunto'. He is ment. in Decreets issued at Dunblane on 10 December, 1663 and 30 June, 1670. He mar. Margery—, having issue a son,

WILLIAM GALLOWAY, 3rd of Lipnoch, only child of his father, half of whose lands were settled on him by his father on 14 August, 1668 when he mar. Janet, eldest dau. of James Richardson, portioner of Kilnoir. He was called upon in company with the 5th Earl of Mar and other heritors of the parish of Logie to contribute to the repair of Logie Kirk, 13 February, 1684. Being one of the heritors of Western Perthshire, he was commanded by the Laird of Argatie to attend at Dunblane from 27 October until 9 November, 1688 with regard to the disposition of their militia for the opening stages of the "Glorious Revolution" in favour of KING WILLIAM III. He d. before 29 November, 1693, leaving issue,

1. JOHN, 4th of Lipnoch, sometime sailor in Barrowstounness. Contributed to the building of Logie Manse in 1698, viz: 'out of the lands of Lipnoch eleven pund fourtein shilling four pennies money forsaid'. He mar. Margaret Jervie and d.s.p. before 20 February, 1706.

2. James, a glover in Edinburgh, d.s.p. March, 1696.

3. William, a mariner, d.s.p. at sea aboard The Rising Sun on Darien Expedition of 1699.

The representation of the line ultimately devolved upon, see p. 6

LIPNOCH

During the 17th Century, Lipnoch was a small estate situated on the slopes below Dunmyat, a prominent peak of the Ochil Hills. From the summit of Dunmyat can be seen a picturesque and historic prospect embracing parts of twelve counties and containing several celebrated battlefields, including Stirling Bridge, Bannockburn, Sauchieburn and Sheriffmuir. The windings of the River Forth are directly below, while Abbey Craig and Stirling Castle are two notable features of the immediate landscape. The Highlands, both to the West and the North, are widely viewed.

The name of the estate derives from the Gaelic lub cnoc, meaning "bend of the hill". It is now a sheep farm with a small white farmhouse modernly called "Lipney", which because of its lofty situation is one of the best-known houses in the district. Behind the House of Lipney are found traces of the ruins of the "ancient chapels and hermitages of Lupno", a reminder of when these lands were possessed by the Church. It is probable that before falling into ruin these buildings served as the seat of the lairds of Lipnoch. Old documents refer to "the court of Lupnoch, held by him (the proprietor) as lord of the same", but neither the present farmhouse nor its site suggest a manorial seat!

Lipnoch is in the parish of Logie, which parish includes parts of the counties of Stirling and Clackmannan and formerly included part of the county of Perth as well. Lipnoch is in the county of Stirling, but when possessed by the Galloways it lay in the county of Perth. Its southerly and south-easterly limits now coincide with the Clackmannan border. This line is also its boundary with the estate of Menstrie, the ancient castle and village of which are overlooked from the braes of Lipnoch. In a modern (1959) article in the Alloa Advertiser a charming description is given as follows: "The hillside farm of the Lipney holds perhaps a special place in the affections of Menstrie folk — from its vantage ground of 200 feet up on the southern face of Dunmyat it seems to preside throughout the seasons over the village, a symbol of a quiet and pastoral way of life." Less than two miles away is the village of Tullibody where the Galloways were settled as feudal tenants of the Setons for several generations before acquiring Lipnoch.

The lands of Lipnoch belonged to the Crown and were used by the Stuart kings for royal sheep pasturage and hawking expeditions. It was in this locality that KING JAMES VI (I of England) met his court favourite, William Alexander of Menstrie, whom he later knighted and eventually created Earl of Stirling, Viscount Canada and Baron Alexander of Tullibody. This great courtier was the founder of the North American colony of Nova Scotia and the holder of many offices of state. He was the patron of Sir James Galloway (later Lord Dunkeld) and for a short time the Galloways in Tullibody were his vassals.

The lands of Lipnoch were successively held by several families as an heritable estate. The Galloways enjoyed the proprietorship for the prescribed "four generations" which in Scots law allowed the name of the estate to be permanently used as a surnom terrien by the head of the family, even after actual ownership of the property had passed into other hands. However, this territorial designation has never been used or claimed by any heir male of the last de facto Galloway of Lipnoch, who died in 1706.

Capt. James Walker Galloway, of Staplefield, co. Sussex and Sydney, Australia, appears to be the present Head of the Family, but whether he is the 13th or the 14th entitled to be so styled is difficult to ascertain. He succeeded on the death of his father, Major James Galloway of Holmsted Manor, co. Sussex, in 1948. The present order of succession to be Head of the Family of Galloway of Lipnoch is as follows:

1st	Malcolm McLennan Galloway, Staplefield, co. Sussex	born 1936
2nd	John James Galloway, Arbroath, co. Angus	born 1914
